

You are the

Active Procrastinator

You strategically delay tasks, believing that time pressure helps you focus and perform better. Your procrastination is intentional and often maintains quality outcomes.

START HERE

Optimize your pressure points for maximum effectiveness

Strategies That Work For You

- Optimize your pressure points for maximum effectiveness
- Create structured procrastination systems
- Build in safety buffers for critical tasks
- Use your peak pressure periods strategically
- Maintain backup plans for high-stakes situations

Your Strengths

- Strategic time management abilities
- High performance under pressure
- Ability to prioritize effectively
- Efficient use of peak energy and focus

Often Confused With

These patterns overlap. If your result only half fits, it's worth reading about these too.

Arousal Procrastination

The strongest overlap in the research. Strategy and a hunger for adrenaline look identical from outside.

Passive Procrastination

If the plan keeps failing, the strategy may be a story you tell afterwards.

GO DEEPER

Active Procrastinator · €5

payhip.com/b/4aK87

This is a self-report assessment, not a clinical diagnosis.

procrastitype.jnorthwood.com · retake the quiz at procrastitype.jnorthwood.com/quiz