

You are the

Passive Procrastinator

You delay due to disorganization, poor time management, or inability to act effectively. This is traditional procrastination caused by lack of structure and systems.

START HERE

Implement organizational systems (calendars, to-do lists)

Strategies That Work For You

- Implement organizational systems (calendars, to-do lists)
- Break large tasks into small, manageable steps
- Use external accountability and reminders
- Create structured routines and habits
- Focus on building time management skills

Your Strengths

- Flexibility and adaptability
- Openness to trying new approaches
- Potential for rapid improvement with right systems
- Often creative and spontaneous thinking

Often Confused With

These patterns overlap. If your result only half fits, it's worth reading about these too.

Avoidant Procrastination

Disorganisation and avoidance tangle together more often than either one looks.

Active Procrastination

The test of strategic delay is whether the outcome actually holds up.

GO DEEPER

Passive Procrastinator · €5

payhip.com/b/eiqDR

This is a self-report assessment, not a clinical diagnosis.

procrastitype.jnorthwood.com · retake the quiz at procrastitype.jnorthwood.com/quiz